

MURDERER SPEERING MAY YET BE ALIVE

Coachman Waerner Says He Saw and Spoke with the Supposed Suicide.

Met Him in Hoboken and Tried to Cause His Arrest, but He Escaped.

POLICE WONT TAKE UP THE CASE.

Sister and Others Fully Identified the Clothing as That Belonging to Sperring—Case Strangely Similar to the Appleton Mystery.

Herman Woerner, a coachman employed by Undertaker Zimmer, in Hoboken, is sure that he saw Christopher Sperring, the murderer, alive and well in Hoboken on Tuesday last. It was supposed that Sperring had committed suicide by throwing himself into the Hudson River. A body found floating in that stream in June, 1895, was buried unidentified. Later, the brother, mother and sister-in-law of the murderer looked at the clothes that were on this corpse when found and declared they were the garments worn by Sperring when he disappeared after killing his wife. There is a strange analogy between this case of Murderer Sperring and the case of William R. Appleton, who was discovered alive and well in Jersey City last week. A body had been found floating off College Point, Long Island. Mrs. Appleton saw the corpse and declared it to be that of her husband, who, when arrested for theft on May 11, had escaped from the officers in Centre Street Court. There was no mistake about the identification of Appleton, and the man is now held, awaiting the action of the Grand Jury. Appleton admits his identity. When first arrested he was indignant because the officers persisted in believing him dead.

When Woerner saw Murderer Sperring he drove up behind him and called him by his nickname, "Spate." Sperring turned quickly and answered. The two men, who had once been close friends, conversed for some minutes. Woerner was all the time looking around for an officer, intending to have Sperring arrested. Finally the coach driver brought his horses around and a black driver overtook Patrolman Young. The officer would not believe Sperring was alive, but finally ran back to look for the man Woerner had seen. The man had escaped over the back fence at that time.

The police consider Woerner a reliable man, but nevertheless are not disposed to take up the chase for a murderer they believe to be dead. The coachman's uncorroborated recognition.

If it is really Sperring, the officers have good reason to energetically search for him. He was known as a most desperate man. He cut his wife's throat in the most fiendish manner on February 18, 1895. After the deed he walked about among the neighbors telling of the crime. He once threatened to kill Justice of the Peace Ruseh, and a day or so later was caught late at night in Ruseh's house.

REAL ESTATE MAN ARRESTED.

Mrs. Campfield Couldn't Get a Settlement with John M. Burnett.

Newark, N. J., May 27.—John M. Burnett, one of the best known real estate men in New Jersey, was arrested to-day and placed under $2,000 bail to answer a charge of having embezzled $1,300 belonging to Mrs. Margaretta C. Campfield, of No. 301 Wright street. The bail was furnished by his daughter, Edith Burnett, who was indicted last night. Mrs. Burnett in her complaint alleges that she retained Burnett in 1904 to purchase a piece of property for her from Samuel S. Hays, of Brooklyn. The property is situated on New York avenue, in this city, and the price set on it was $2,000.

Mrs. Campfield declares she gave Burnett the money to purchase the property for her, but that she had been unable to get the deed although she had made frequent demands for it. Burnett, she says, always put her off with one excuse or another, and finally leaving her a note that Burnett had paid only $1,700 of the amount she had given him on the property. Burnett has been in the real estate business here for about thirty years. His home is in Morristown, where he lives in good style. He will say nothing about the case at present.

THINKS SHE IS HYPNOTIZED.

Mrs. Glanzman Says Professor Last Has a Peculiar Power Over Her.

Mrs. Elizabeth Glanzman, of No. 74 Hoboken avenue, Jersey City, who on May 16 involved the aid of the Newark police to compel Professor F. Last, an astrologer, of No. 103 Magazine street, that city, to cease hypnotizing her, still persists in her strange fancy. Yesterday she called on Clerk Andrew Boyle, of the Oakland Avenue Police Court, Jersey City, and asked for a warrant for Professor Last's arrest.

Professor Last denied to the police that he was exercising any hypnotic influence over Mrs. Glanzman. He said that he had received numerous letters from her begging him to cast off the spell he had put upon her, but he had paid no attention to them.

She pleaded guilty and said she was under the influence of drink at the time she committed the crime. The judge said he would sentence her on Friday. As she was being led away she faltered.

Elizabeth, N. J., May 27.—The Law Committee of the City Council gave a hearing last night to citizens who objected to the passage of the ordinance compelling the muzzling of all dogs. The committee was composed of Messrs. Marsh, who keeps many fine dogs, and other prominent citizens, argued against it, and the committee will undoubtedly report adversely to its passage.

Heretic Takes a "Header."

Bellville, N. J., May 27.—James Westlake, of this place, while riding a bicycle along North Main street last night, had his left shoulder dislocated and his head badly cut by the breaking of the front fork of the wheel. He was thrown head first upon the pavement. He was taken to his home and will be laid up for some time.

BOY ROBBERS ARE BOLD.

Lads Are Under Ten Years, Yet They Take from One Victim $500 Worth of Goods.

Elizabeth, N. J., May 27.—The police have succeeded in breaking up an annoying gang of boys who had bonded together to rob Elizabeth storekeepers. They are all of the nickel-and-dime variety, and their headquarters in a cave they dug. Here they carried the stolen goods and managed to have a grand old time while it lasted.

The oldest of the lads is under ten years of age. Recently they became very bold in their operations. They generally selected B. Lietz, a grocer, of No. 312 Second street, as a victim, and from whom they would order large quantities of groceries, saying they had been sent by the mother. The mother, of Mrs. Lietz. They would then take the goods away with them to the cave, where a feast would be indulged in.

After that some number of the gang would read a chapter or two from "Dead-wood Dick" or "Comanche Sam." Mr. Lietz lost over $100 worth of goods in this manner, and it was a long time before he was able to fasten the guilt on any of the gang. He got a watch, however, and succeeded yesterday in getting the eight-year-old lad named Meade, who lives at No. 219 Port avenue. The chief of police did a search of the cave to-night and expects to land others of the gang. None of the boys appeared at the rendezvous to-night, however.

Miss Rosa Leen, a niece of the bride, was maid of honor, and she acted as a special train to take him to Washington in a hurry, as the case was to be argued there immediately, and through an oversight, not only had not reached the city in time, Mrs. Burke paid for the special train, but the prosecution showed that there was no such circumstance.

Newark, N. J., May 27.—Fire broke out early this morning in Samuel Poznak's second-hand furniture store, at No. 281 Market street, while the occupants of the two upper floors were asleep. The fire was discovered by a motorman on a passing street car, and he alarmed the inmates. They were awakened by the fire, and the firemen rushed in to extinguish it. The fire was caused by a gas stove in the kitchen. The firemen saved several lives. The loss on property is about $1,500.

A RAILROAD WAR AVERTED.

Police Backed Up Citizens and an Objectionable Switch Wasn't Laid.

It was expected there would be a small railroad war at Union Hill yesterday, but the company looked over the ground and decided not to fight. At a meeting of the Township Council Tuesday night objection was made by property owners to the North Hudson Company laying a switch. The matter was looked into, and Chairman Higgins of the Street Committee, directed the police to forbid the laying of the switch. Yesterday when the workmen arrived, the police prevented their going to work. The company decided to lay the switch on a part of the street where the property owners do not object.

HE DUG UP AN OLD PENNY.

An English Coin Nearly 300 Years Old Is Unearthed at Belleville, N. J.

Belleville, N. J., May 27.—Peter Heller, of this town, who lives in the old Meredith house on John street, while digging on his farm yesterday, unearthed an English penny bearing the date in Roman numerals of 1600. The inscription on the coin cannot be deciphered. The date, however, is plainly visible and upon its face is the likeness of "Good Queen Bess," her high roll standing out in relief. The house near where the coin was found was built in 1702 and was then merely an addition to a much older house.

BOY FIREMEN IN NUTLEY.

Company Formed of Schoolboys, Aged Between Twelve and Fifteen Years.

Nutley, N. J., May 27.—A novelty in fire circles is the formation in this town of a truck and hose company of schoolboys, ranging in age from twelve to fifteen years. The boys will meet at the Newark police on Decoration Day in parade, and will appear in uniform, wearing helmet hats and white coats.

The idea that boys would make good firemen was first suggested by the Newark police. The boys will be organized into a company, and will be given instruction in the use of the hose and other fire-fighting equipment.

MRS. ELLEN BURKE GOT A GOLD BRICK.

Says She Gave a Lawyer All She Had to Recover a Mythical Fortune.

Now He Is on Trial for Obtaining Her Money Under False Pretences.

GOT BIG FEES FOR BOGUS SERVICES.

She Once Paid Him $300 to Charter a Special Train, Which the State Has Proved He Never Hired—A Peculiar Lawsuit.

New Brunswick, N. J., May 27.—J. Dixon Cresswell, a local lawyer, was put on trial this morning on a charge of obtaining money from Mrs. Ellen Burke under false pretences. The deception was alleged by the prosecutor to consist in the fact that Mr. Cunningham collected about $2,000 from Mrs. Burke for the prosecution of her claim against the estate of Ezekiel Patterson. Cunningham, it was stated, represented to Mrs. Burke that he could get a large slice of the estate of Patterson, who died worth a million dollars, because of her long service as a nurse and servant.

The prosecutor testified that he had discovered that no suit had been brought at all, and that the defendant had deceived the woman from the outset, and finally used up every cent of her earnings. Mrs. Burke testified that she had known the lawyer for about five years. He represented that she had a substantial claim against the Patterson estate, and on various occasions received money from her for fees, travelling and court expenses. Finally, after she had spent several hundred dollars, he told her that he had won the case for her, and that she would receive $100,000, but that it would take $800 more for him to pay the costs. This Mrs. Burke paid Cunningham. He also represented to her, she testified, that Chief Justice Beasley had written several letters to him, in which he spoke favorably of Mrs. Burke's claim. These letters he took to her and read aloud. She could not read them, but she had every faith in him. Mrs. Burke said Cunningham came to her and told her that it would require $800 to secure a special train to take him to Washington in a hurry, as the case was to be argued there immediately, and through an oversight, not only had not reached the city in time, Mrs. Burke paid for the special train, but the prosecution showed that there was no such circumstance.

BIG POLICE SHAKE-UP.

Disgraceful Condition of New Brunswick Force Sets Reformers at Work in Earnest.

New Brunswick, N. J., May 27.—A big shake-up in the New Brunswick police force is coming. Two suspensions of policemen, with the prospect of more to follow, was the result of the session of the Police Committee of the Common Council last night. Detective Oliver, chairman of the Police Committee, has started in to reform things in the police force. He is convinced that only about one-third are doing their whole duty, and says that there were no any politics in his reformation, but the men who get drunk and fail to report according to rules will be suspended, and if they are convicted the Common Council will remove them. Mr. Oliver said this morning that the record of every man on the force since the present Police Committee came into existence will be investigated. Mr. Oliver has been convinced, he says, that the force has become thoroughly demoralized, and that the only thing for several officers to go to the police station drunk in the morning, and there to get drunk and fail to report according to rules will be suspended, and if they are convicted the Common Council will remove them. Mr. Oliver said citizens had come to him by the score to tell of seeing drunken policemen on post, and the situation has become so intolerable that he has felt that the Police Committee must act firmly with all offenders. Chief Harding is said to be under suspicion, as the notorious have run wide open on Sunday for a long time, despite protest.

NEGRO HIS OWN LAWYER.

Defended Himself Well but Was Convicted in Ten Minutes.

Elizabeth, N. J., May 27.—About 11 o'clock on the evening of March 5 residents of North Broad street, a fashionable thoroughfare, were startled by a succession of piercing feminine shrieks. Policemen Lucas and several citizens hastened to the spot and found Miss Sarah Hopkins in a state of great distress. She was in the grasp of a negro, who had released her throat from his fingers for a moment and screamed. He was crying to wrest her pocketbook from her and throw her upon the ground. He fled at the approach of Lucas, who, however, caught him after a long chase. The prisoner had a brick in his pocket, and as the crime occurred shortly after the murder of Miss Maudie Sullivan, of Patterson, it was thought he may have been a slayer. The trial of Ansteth for attempted highway robbery took place this morning before Judge McCracken. The prisoner refused a lawyer and conducted his own case. He examined witnesses in a creditable manner, but the jury found him guilty in ten minutes.
